

Doors and windows book

A book that includes doors or windows that children can open is a great starting point for a 'question and answer' book inspired by their work in science lessons.

- Fold a rectangular piece of card into quarters.

- Open it out again, and in one section draw the shape of a door.
- Cut around three sides of this door.
- Fold the card together again – you will now see where you can draw the picture that will be revealed when the door is opened.
