

The seed song

Sitting waiting for the spring safely underground all my food tucked up inside growing nice and round.

Absorbing all the water until my root pops out growing to find more water like a wiggly snout.

Then my little shoot uncurls white at first then green growing up towards the sun healthy long and lean.

Now it's time for leaves to sprout they start off really small helping me to make my food so I grow nice and tall.

When I'm big the flowers grow insects come and then they help me make a lot of seeds and start the song again.
