

Fact cards

Water can be a solid, a liquid or a gas.

Different materials are used to make different things depending on their properties.

When some materials are heated, they change and cannot be changed back again.

If a material can be stretched and twisted, and then return to its original shape, we describe it as 'elastic'.

